

DIANE MONCHER, LCSW

About: As a clinical social worker I have worked in child welfare and mental health. My work has provided experience in assessment and crisis intervention. I have done short-term and long term therapeutic work with clients, including a small private practice. Beyond clinical experience my work has involved problem solving at a macro-level, conducting research, writing training material for child protection workers in evidence based treatment and evaluating approaches to clinical work. I hope to continue to establish means for workers in the field to be able to use evidence based practice in their daily activities, especially in the area of decision-making, problem-solving and family conferencing. I also have an interest in studying resiliency.
